110 Mainline Account Executives Hold VMware Professional Certifications

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. – Today, Mainline Information Systems announced the completion of 110 VMware professional certifications, with several others underway. 110 Mainline account executives completed their certifications last week at a virtualization and optimization focused training session held in Raleigh, NC. The training supports Mainline's focus on providing comprehensive virtualization, business continuity, consolidation and optimization solutions through highly-skilled technical and account executive resources.

"Mainline has a dedicated IBM System x server and virtualization team that works hand-in-hand with VMware to deliver the best virtualization solutions available," explained Bill Nemesi, Vice President of System x Sales for Mainline. "Mainline is the first VMware partner to pass the century mark, with more than 110 Mainline employees holding VMware professional certifications. It is easy to see our commitment to highly-optimized, cost-effective solutions."
